

I spent this week working on the team poster for demo day. I was in charge of writing the Evaluation and Methodology sections for Chronos in the poster, which is what I mainly spent the week doing. We also made sure to get other stuff ready for our Demo Day presentation such as finalizing our access to a monitor. I believe after Demo Day, we just need to push our changes to the GitHub and submit all our files to Professor Song in an email, and we should be finished with our Senior Design course.